

SNU Health

서울대학교 보건대학원

Faculty Position in Epidemiology, Seoul National University Graduate School of Public Health

The Department of Public Health Science at the Seoul National University Graduate School of Public Health, Seoul, Korea, invites applications for a tenure-system position in Epidemiology. We are seeking talented early-career applicants qualified for an assistant/associate professor position. Although the position is open to all fields of epidemiology, specialty in molecular or cancer epidemiology will be prioritized. A Ph.D. or compatible degree in Epidemiology is required by time of application.

Candidates will be assessed on their track record of academic competitiveness and the potential to lead a new research area. Ability to teach a graduate-level general and specific epidemiology courses in both English and Korean is mandatory.

Candidates may interview at the Graduate School of Public Health SNU. Rank and salary are commensurate with qualifications and experience.

For more information, please refer to the SNU website for faculty position openings (<https://professor.snu.ac.kr/adm/public/hurt/rcrt/frame/index.jsp>).